PROSECUTION CALHOUN CASE ADMITS THEIR AGENTS INQUIRED ABOUT TALESMEN

able to say. It is not unlikely that the defendant himself is opposed to wrangling or anything savoring of a disturbance.

"But while the fire smolders it is there and is likely to flare up at any time. A spark may start combustion at any moment.

Interviewing the Talesmen

"This morning the prosecution was again caught red-handed trying to feel out one of the passed jurors. Juror Heidewald complained to Judge Lawlor that some stranger had called at his place of business and interrogated his brother-in-law in the juror's hearing as to whether Heidewald leaned toward the prosecution or the defense.

"Honey finally admitted that the inquisitive stranger was a Burns agent and excused his conduct by accusing the defense of doing the same thing.

"In two of the three cases previously reported it was proved that the prosecution did the feeling out," said the elder Moore.

"I can prove it was the defense in two of the three cases," retorted Honey angrily.

"My recollection is that Moore was right. Honey started in to disqualify Heidewald and grew so offensive in a very few moments that Stanley Moore objected on the ground of misconduct.

Heidewald Excused by Court

"Judge Lawlor sustained the objection, but he excused Heidewald, although Honey failed in his efforts to disqualify. So the prosecution emerged victors from a bad position.

"The incident illustrates the general course of events in the slow process of impaling a jury. I may add that Heidewald was formerly a union car man, and opposed calling the big strike. When he made that admission it was a hundred to one shot that the prosecution would not permit him to sit on the jury."

brother-in-law's house a man came into the hallway and spoke to him," said Talesman Charles M. Heidewald, proprietor of a bakery and restaurant, who was under examination. "I was in the parlor and overheard part of the conversation. He said his name was Wilson and asked him about my sentiments, which way I leaned, for or against the prosecution, and how I would be likely to vote. Day before yesterday as fellow of similar description called on one of my tenants. Now, I'm not here from choice. I don't want to serve. I'm not going to be bothered that way and I ask to be excused."

Honey made no further investigation but proceeded at once to continue his line of questioning. It was not until the defense took Heidewald in hand that the truth was revealed.

Prosecution's Man

"If your purpose is to find out who the man was," said Honey, while Moore was requesting a description of the unknown, "I'll say the man was sent there by the prosecution."

"That's all I wanted to know," replied the defendant's counsel, and the prosecuting attorney made the reservation that it was understood that the talesman himself did not live there.

Other than for a little feeling over this occurrence, Heidewald declared he could be fair, but Judge Lawlor, asserting that he had a doubt in his mind, finally allowed Honey's challenge, and discharged him.

MORNING SESSION

This is the sixth week of the Calhoun trial, and it is drawing rapidly to a close. Moreover it is Friday and the thirteenth panel of veniremen was examined by Judge Lawlor this morning. Friday and thirteen have always gone together and proved a talesman for either good or evil.

This may eventually change the aspect of affairs. It did not seem, however, to make much difference with the panel under examination; excusals were as usual poured into the ears of the court and it appeared as though the majority of those summoned made them good and managed to get off.

The result of the morning's questioning showed thirty talesmen retained for duty at the hearing.

Heidewald Under Fire

When court was adjourned last evening Francis J. Honey was working hard in his efforts to disqualify Charles M. Heidewald, proprietor of a bakery and restaurant, who came to him to use his own expression, "was fired out of the union." He has proved to be a hard man for the prosecution to deal with and his regular answers "I don't know" to every query to which he was not absolutely sure of netting Honey quite a little.

It was plain from the start that the prosecution didn't want Heidewald. He had opposed the union at the time of the car troubles, had given aid and comfort to the enemy by not forbidding the strike breakers from eating in his restaurant, and was acquainted slightly with some of the officials of the United Railroads.

His Statement.

When the hearing began today at 11:15 a. m., Heidewald stood up and made a voluntary statement as follows:

"LAST NIGHT, WHILE I WAS AT MY BROTHER-IN-LAW'S HOUSE, A MAN CAME INTO THE HALLWAY AND SPOKE TO HIM. I WAS IN THE PARLOR AND OVERHEARD PART OF THE CONVERSATION. HE SAID HIS NAME WAS WILSON, AND ASKED HIM ABOUT MY SENTIMENTS. WHICH WAY I LEANED, FOR OR AGAINST THE PROSECUTION, AND HOW I WOULD BE LIKELY TO VOTE. DAY BEFORE YESTERDAY A FELLOW OF SIMILAR DESCRIPTION CALLED ON ONE OF MY TENANTS. NOW, I'M NOT HERE FROM CHOICE. I DON'T WANT TO SERVE. I'M NOT GOING TO BE BOTHERED THAT WAY, AND I ASK TO BE EXCUSED."

Talesman's Protest

No attention was, however, paid to his declaration, by Honey, who, disbelieving in the statement, questioned him on other lines. He asked him if he

AFTERNOON SESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 19.—[Informed one of the passed jurors during the night, and he had stated that he would keep an appointment tomorrow night," declared Judge Lawlor at the commencement of the afternoon session.

"In view of that fact, and the further

fact that Monday will be a legal holiday,

the parties will not be called upon to exercise their peremptory challenges

until Tuesday, if that stage of the proceedings

shall be reached."

The examination of Dudley Haskell

was then resumed. He had stated that he had a slight feeling in favor of the union on the score of the street car

strike of 1907, and Attorney Stanley

Moore wanted to know whether that was because of the fact that the car men had funds on deposit in his bank. Recalling a negative reply he asked whether the talesman had ever seen a Secretary Bowling of the union, coming in or out of the bank. The talesman said he had observed him many times, but that he was not able to state whether or not he was also unable to state whether or not

Honey had ever represented the bank in a legal way.

Against Haskell.

The talesman's questioning appeared to indicate that Moore was not particularly desirous of securing Haskell as a juror, and he later rejected him on a great variety of questions.

He queried the talesman as to whether he had any knowledge of a suit instituted

by Alton Ruff in connection with a fee of $1000 he was endeavoring to collect from a woman, whereas he was entitled to only $170.

"Do you know John W. Howell?" finally asked the attorney.

"Yes," was the answer.

"Is he employed in that bank and is a close friend of yours?" asked Moore.

"Yes, I see him every day."

"But, aside from that, he is a personal friend, is he not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Did he ever speak about his son having been hurt in a car accident?"

"I didn't know his son and been hurt."

"Have you ever discussed this case with him?"

"No."

"Do you want to go on record as saying that you did not discuss this case with him?"

"That is a fact, yes."

"Do you know any of the members of the old board of supervisors?"

"No, well, I know Gallagher, but not to the extent of the others."

Haskell explained that about fifteen years ago when "Big Jim" was in the old office, he had seen him and that he had a sort of acquaintance with him. They had no, however, bowed

since the earthquake.

Surprised at Gallagher.

He asserted that he was surprised to learn that Gallagher had confessed to having committed a crime and then had about the disclosure with interest but was unable to be sure as to whether or not he had read the actual questions or answers.

"Do you recall that Mr. Ruff was put on trial in this matter several times?" asked the attorney.

"Yes."

"You heard of the result of that trial?"

"Yes."

"Do you believe that the supervisors received money in the trolley matter?"

"I don't think there is any doubt about that."

"Isn't it a fact that you think bribery

was committed in that matter by someone?"

"Yes, I think the form of examination

is improper."

"But, your honor," returned Moore, "if they are in his employ they would come under that qualification."

"If they are in his employ," retorted the prosecutor, "they are to combat those on the other side."

Spies Everywhere.

The spies will be all found on one side," retorted Moore.

"No they are not," retorted Honey. "I have had trouble with five or six of them

who have been following me until I had to threaten them in order to prevent them."

Then there was a little more such banter, which resulted in Attorney A. A.

Moore making a statement after a struggle with Honey.

Then, they are spies?"

"Call them anything you like," cried

the prosecutor.

The challenge against Hammond was allowed, and Maxwell Hewitt, of 7525

Washington street, was called to the stand. He was a neighbor and friend of Mr. Calhoun, and was asked if he would endeavor to be impartial in the trial. He was excused by the court after which George H. Honey of 2880 Sacramento street, an insurance

agent, was discharged because of an opinion.

Packer Interviewed.

Attorney Moore thereupon commenced

to interrogate Charles Harris, president of the Lewis Packing Company, who lives at 1000 Van Ness avenue. He was asked if he would endeavor to be impartial in the trial, and he was discharged after which George H. Honey of 2880 Sacramento street, an insurance

agent, was discharged because of an opinion.

Heidewald Called.

Charles N. Heidewald, of 415 Devis-

adero street, whose bakery and restaurant

is almost next door to the Oak-street car

house, asserted that Mr. Calhoun's railroad was a bad cattle dealer. He had before he could be led to convict

Honey. He said he favored the company on the score of its bad cattle dealer. He had Judge Brown Scores Husband for Trying to Influence Court.

Mrs. Laura M. Koster, wife of E. W. Koster, the hardware merchant, was admitted to probation today by Judge Brown in the Superior Court, for a term of eight years. Mrs. Koster was found guilty of passing sexual bad checks, and it took several conferences between Judge Brown and Probation Officer Brown before the Judge could decide to pass this light sentence. The principal reason for this action was the delicate health of Mrs. Koster.

After passing on Mrs. Koster's case, Judge Brown called her husband up before him and asked him to explain why he had sent several of his influential friends to the Judge to induce him to exercise leniency in the disposition of the case.

He gave Koster a very severe lecture about the impropriety of such conduct and finally accepted Koster's apology and explanation that he was not aware of the breach of court etiquette that he had violated.

WILL DISCUSS OAKLAND CHARTER AMENDMENTS

Prof. William C. Jones of the University of California will deliver a public address tonight at the Pilgrim Congregational church on Eighth avenue. He will discuss the amendments to the Oakland city charter.

EATS LIKE A HORSE

WELL KNOWN OAKLAND-
ER SAYS FERDON'S REM-EDIES HAVE MADE HIM
A NEW MAN.

It is a genuine source of satisfaction
to the Great Fer-don to learn from hundreds of like the marvelous stories of regained health that are due solely and directly to the treatment of the world renowned European Experts and Blood-less Surgeons. One out of ten people who call at the office, 1029 Broadway, have been sent by others who knew the efficacy of the European methods and treatment of disease. "Sinner or later,"
says Fer-don, "very sick or half sick men and women in Oakland are going to the office before I have over found that one of the many Oaklanders who have recently become enthusiastic on the subject of Fer-don's remedies and who name is withheld by request, had the following to say yesterday afternoon of Ferdon's remedies: "It is hard to realize that any medicine or treatment will do all that is claimed for it."
"I have seen many doctors and taken all kind of medicine for ten years and this is the first I have ever found that was worth two cents. I have had rheumatism constantly for ten years and have spent a quarter of what I made for doctors and medicine. I might have taken so much rain water for all the good they did me. Before I had been under treatment two days I realized I was worth something. I am now as well as I ever was in my life. I have no rheumatism and eat like a horse. I feel like doing something now, where a month ago I could not walk a block. When I first bought I thought it was another fake, but now I know better. All the other stuff I have taken was worth nothing;
this is worth ten, yes, twenty times what they ask for it."

GOVERNOR SIGNS RACETRACK BILL

Present Season at Emeryville
Will Be Curtailed
One Month.

ramento today will result in curtailing
the present season at Emeryville by about a month. At Santa Anita the season's end will have been reached before the bill becomes a law. There is no provision in the bill relating to the time of its going into effect.

It will therefore become operative within sixty days from today. Deducting from this Sundays and holidays, the new law will become effective about May 1.
The racing at Emeryville was to have continued until about June 1, while at Santa Anita the season closes officially about April 15.
SACRAMENTO, Feb. 19. — The signing of the Walker-Otto anti-race gambling
bill by Governor Gillett today sounds
the final knell of professional racing tracks in California, as well as wiping out the various poolrooms which have thrived both openly and secretly in all parts of the State. Violation of the new law which goes into effect sixty days from date, is punishable by imprisonment
in the county jail or prison for a period of not less than thirty days and not exceeding one year.
Debate for and against the passage of the racetrack bill was productive of more bitter animosity than any other measure brought before the present session of the legislature.
The proceedings were marked by a caustic attack on the clergy by President Thomas H. Williams Jr. of the Jockey Club, and by violent fulminations
on the part of other racetrack stockholders. The bill, however, passed both houses by overwhelming odds, the assembly voting 67 to 10 for its passage,
while the Senate sent it to the Governor
for signature with thirty-three yeas against but seven nays.

Look After Interests of Their Country Customers

ELMHURST, Feb. 19. — The Bank of San Leandro will open a branch bank in a few days and will be able to take care of its large number of customers in this vicinity. A fine safe is now being placed in the building and the branch will be provements.

The location of the branch bank is opposite the power house, right in the center of the town. Mr. Joseph Tring will be cashier of the branch, but of course he will always be under the direction of the officers of the parent bank at San Leandro.

The Bank of San Leandro was never in a better condition than at present.
Under the able management of President L. C. Morehouse the bank has made wonderful progress and it is now ranked as one of the best country banks
in the state.

Cashier Charles H. Hule has also been a splendid worker for the bank and deserves a great deal of credit for the present financial condition of the institution. He is courteous at all times and thoroughly knows the banking business.

The Bank of San Leandro is directed

Windows Dressed Up to the Minute

New and Original Departures
in Dressing Show Windows at The Hub.

A stroller along Broadway cannot help but stop and admire the immense show windows of The Hub, corner of Eleventh street, in their sparkling new spring garb. Mr. Joras, the manager of this well-known store, has recently incorporated some of the latest ideas in window dressing with some novel schemes of his own and the result is a harmonious, rich and attractive display. The interior woodwork has all been worked over into a deep mahogany finish, movable and artificially designed partitions are used,
and instead of an attempt to show
one's entire stock, as many do, the opposite plan is pursued and only one or two garments are shown, artistically draped and displayed. The entire effect is very attractive, leading an air of exclusiveness and character that cannot help but redound to the benefit of this popular store.

New spring suits are shown straw hats in various blocks with bright colored bands; tan shoes, and necktie displays which make the spectator believe that spring is really here, and The Hub is ready for it.

Trusses That Torture

There are a great many of them in and around Oakland, but it is safe to assert that not one of them came from either of Osgood's drug stores.

When a man needs a truss he is really in a dangerous condition. We don't say when he thinks he needs a truss, but when he really does—
there is a vast difference between the two.

We not only supply
perfect-fitting trusses, but we aim to correct the cause that makes a truss necessary. So it is that the majority of all the people who require trusses temporarily or permanently go to Osgood's for them. With every truss
that we fit and sell there goes over twenty years
of practical experience.

We have a special truss
that we sell for one dollar and we venture to say that many trusses have been sold in Oakland for three times the amount that have not been worth
one-third as much.

Osgood's Drug Stores
are at Seventh and Broadway and Twelfth and Washington streets.

AMERICAN BLOCK COAL, THE GENUINE, IS NOW ONLY $10.00 A TON

EGG SIZE ONLY TO BE SOLD AT THIS PRICE, WHICH IS JUST THE SIZE FOR COOKING PURPOSES—
SAID TO BE SUPERIOR TO ANY $14 OR $15 COAL ON THE MARKET

If ever a brand of coal enjoyable separation in any one
the record of American Block Alameda county certainly deservthe medal. It seems as though for people living in Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley have had to put up with the most unsatisfactory coals, and with the introduction of American Block Coal all coal burning difficulties are disappearing.

"I couldn't find a coal I could use at all for less than $15 a ton," a little woman said at the counter of the American Fuel Co's office yesterday.
"and even these expensive coals were not exactly right. All the cheaper coals were full of tar and gave out so much soot and smoke and let out so many clinkers that I was almost distracted. I must confess," she continued, "that when I hear your coal sold for $10 a ton in the egg size, I tried it with some misgiving. For I had tried so many other brands but I was agreeably surprised. It is not only soft, but actually burns up soot and really cleaned my stove of soot. I like it better than any of the expensive brands."

There is no question but the wonderfully fine coal and the steady stream of orders and the constant praise of its merits from the people are using it proves it to be a coal of very exceptional qualities.

"I never thought a coal existed that burned so freely and gave so much heat with no soot or smoke," says a customer. "Your American Block Coal is even better than you say it is,
and now cooking is a pleasure for me.
I get a hot oven in no time, and although I use the small lumps, paying only $10 a ton, I don't use nearly as much as I used to when I bought
..... coal at $14 a ton."

The secret of the success of this coal lies partly in the fact that it contains no tar, which is the element of coal that makes soot. Another important feature is the fact that it gives out a very long hot blaze, which completely surrounds the oven and thus heats it quickly, a short blaze coal being only good for broiling.

Another important item in which the American Fuel Co. takes a great deal of pride is the fact that they are being complimented on all sides for giving good, full measure. "I never knew how big a 100-pound sack of coal was until I got the coal I ordered of you," said a customer the other day. "I must have been getting the worst of it, I guess, if these great big sacks you sent out are only 100-pound sacks."

"Weigh them up," the order clerk replied, "and you'll find we are only giving you what's right. Perhaps you have never had a full hundred-pound sack before, or possibly some of the other coals are heavier than American Block. Dead weight, you know, is not necessarily good coal."

In contradiction to the usual state of affairs, the American Fuel Co. finding that they could afford it, voluntarily reduced the price of American Block Coal, egg size, to $10.00. Although people were ordering this coal faster than it could be delivered, this reduction was made. It only proves the fair, square policy of this great concern and goes to show that they propose to carry out their original idea—to protect the public.

Half a ton of the egg size costs
$5.00. The large lumps, for grades, cost $6.00 for half a ton and $12.00
for a ton. The prices per sack are 55c and 65c.

Oakland people should phone all orders to Oakland 770 or Home phone A14 0. Berkeley residents should phone the Berkeley office by ringing up Berkeley 1729. Alameda folks should call up Alameda 2832.

The main offices are on Broadway, opposite Ye Liberty Theater. A big brass coal hod stands out in front.

HORSE RUNS AWAY; RIDER IS INJURED

Animal Takes Fright and Chris Holtum Is Thrown to the Ground

EMERALD 1 b 10. Chris Holtum a Muscovite was very light of foot this morning by being thrown from a horse at the corner of Third and Howard streets. He is a native of Illinois and came to this city in 1907 and started to run down Third street toward the waterfront. When the animal started to run he was thrown from the horse and fell to the ground. He was injured and the horse was killed. The animal was owned by the Swift Meat Packing Company (Chicago) and was being driven to the local meat market. While waiting at West Berkeley yesterday two cars of the West Berkeley local left the rails and derailed the local traffic for several hours. The cause was simply at the time and no one was injured.

ASSEMBLYMAN DISCUSSES THE LIQUOR QUESTION

Assemblyman Harry Polinsky, California Legislature, 19th District, Third and San Pablo, Feb. 19, 1909.

EDITOR TRIBUNE: I received a mail copy of your TRIBUNE today referring to an article on prohibition. The article is very interesting and may not be a prohibitionist still it may be a call to attention to the fact that the large sums of money claimed to be spent by the drinker in alcoholic liquors are contributed very largely by the working men themselves.

There is not so much gain to a workman's family or to him self for the money spent for drink and while it may seem that there is a large sum paid in wages to the men in the liquor business still it might be partly offset by the increased cost of living and other necessities for the workman's family.

Respectfully,
HARRY POLINSKY

PIANO FIRM IS SUED FOR ALLEGED RENT DUE

NEW YORK Feb. 19.—Gerald Birmingham, a clerk at the Hotel Gallatin in West Forty fourth, fought a desperate battle with a burglar on a fire escape three stories up at the hotel last night. A misstep might have sent either one to death. The burglar stunned the clerk with a blow, forcing him back through a window and escaped.

Latest Protest Against Game Laws.

The latest attack on the absurdities of the game laws of this and other States comes from an unexpected, but not the less influential quarter. Colonel J. C. Kirkpatrick, the general manager of the Fairmont Hotel, has entered a vigorous protest against being practically limited through the operation of the game laws to chicken, turkey and quab in getting up menu cards. And, with a vein of sarcastic humor, he says he fails to see how San Francisco can maintain "the reputation it has long enjoyed as a place to eat, if our cocks are going to be limited to ram, lamb, sheep and mutton."

But, as a matter of fact, the game laws of California and the effect of the game laws of other States, have reduced the caterers of our caravansaries to the extremity of contracting the range of fish, fowl and meats which may be lawfully supplied on their tables, at any kind of a function, to remarkably narrow limitations. The skill of their high-salaried chefs is taxed to the limit to prepare from the plain and homely products left on the free list imitation dishes of the forbidden products to tickle the epicurean palates of their guests. It goes without saying that in the production of these imitations, the pure law food, as expounded by the good Dr. Wiley, is being fearfully mangled and awfully violated. But there is no help for it. If the genuine article cannot be served on the table, because the game laws either forbid its slaughter in the State, or when its slaughter is restricted to small numbers during the open season or to an equally small number in possession during any given twenty-four hours, or its sale after slaughter is forbidden, what is there left for the manager of the biggest and most fashionable hotel on the Pacific Coast and his experienced chef to do, except to fall back on an imitation, as is done in the case of turtle when the supply of the marine chelonia gives out?

The chaparral along the foothills of the mountain was never more plentifully stocked with quail than it is this year, but "mine host" of the Fairmont reasonably complains that a guest might in vain offer half a kingdom for "quail on toast," because the game laws prohibit its sale; that a craving for venison steak must remain unsatisfied, for the same reason; that wild duck is excluded from the banquet room, for the reason that the number of birds allowed by law to be in possession in any one day is insufficient to go round; that a long list of popular game birds plentiful in this and in neighboring States are "protected" here from slaughter, and possession of any one of those which have been lawfully killed in other States would subject the possessor here to a heavy fine, and that importations of such delicious game birds as pheasants and prairie hens from foreign lands or from States where no restriction is placed on the number slaughtered or on their exportation, are impossible for the same reason.

Colonel Kirkpatrick's protest is well-taken and it will be approved by every one except the select membership of the sportsmen's clubs, for whose exclusive benefit the fish and game laws have specially reserved the use of this kind of public property. When will the Legislature enact a sane game law?

The prompt conviction of M. W. Coffey, one of the boodle Board of Supervisors of which Big Jim Gallagher was president and graft collector and distributor, explodes the contention that the wholesale grant of immunity was essential to the procurement of proof that would enable the prosecution to convict anybody. All the official foodies were offered immunity before any effort had been made to bring them to justice. Gallagher has repeatedly testified that he understood Rudolph Spreckels to mean that Schnitz and Ruef were to be included in the grant of immunity. We know, as a matter of fact, that Ruef was given a grant of immunity, but that it was withdrawn as was the immunity granted Coffey. It is pertinent to inquire why Coffey alone of the immunity band has been brought to trial. His grant of immunity was held good by the prosecution till he was called as a witness in the Ford case. He failed to corroborate Gallagher in a vital particular, and the next day Mr. Heney went before the Grand Jury and had him indicted. The conclusion is obvious, that the motive for prosecuting Coffey was displeasure at the character of the testimony he gave as a witness for the prosecution and not indignation at his official malfeasance.

Protective Tariff for Australia.

Lord Northcote, the ex-Governor-General of Australia, informed the Royal Colonial Institute in London recently that the preferential tariff proposition as a means of consolidating the British empire is still a doubtful and controversial question in the Antipodean colonies. The announcement is of special interest at the present time because Chamberlain, the author of the proposition, desires to return to parliamentary life again as the representative of West Birmingham, his old constituency. In speaking of preferential tariff, Northcote said "there may, or there may not, be other advantages which may render a change in our trade policy with the colonies advisable. But there is one thing that we must remember, and that is that Australia is growing steadily more protectionist from year to year. The determination is fixed in Australia that her own local manufactures shall be protected as they think adequately, and as others may think adequately, against outside competition of every kind."

There can be only one interpretation to such a declaration, namely, that Australia is considering the erection of a barrier which will protect its manufacturing industries against the competition of not only all foreign manufacturing nations, but against those of the United Kingdom also. If so, Chamberlain's preferential tariff idea is as good as dead already and the Australian colonies will attend to its proper interment.

In this light of the case Chamberlain's return to Parliament will be abortive. His preferential tariff plan was to shut foreign food-stuff producing countries out of the markets of the United Kingdom by the imposition of an import tax, from the payment of which the products of the colonies should be exempt. The idea was that the home markets for food-stuffs would be reserved for domestic and colonial agriculturists and that it would benefit the manufacturers of the United Kingdom by encouraging the reciprocal reservation of the colonial markets to them and the exclusion of foreign manufactured products. But the people of the Australian Commonwealth have not welcomed such a tariff arrangement enthusiastically. They do not regard with favor a plan which contemplates leaving their territory open to exploitation by the manufacturers of any nation. What they want, and what they will doubtless do ultimately, as hinted by Lord Northcote, is to set up a tariff for the protection of their own manufacturing industries against the products of all countries—Great Britain included. That policy will knock the spots out of the Chamberlain preferential tariff plan for the purposes of imperial reciprocity.

Geronimo's Last Fight.

The Apache chief, Geronimo, is dead and has gone, according to Indian tradition, to the happy hunting grounds of his fathers. His remains were interred with all the ancient formalities of his race save that his squaw was not permitted to dispatch his favorite sorrel horse, so that the animal might be translated with him to the "great beyond."

It is the better part of two decades since Geronimo and the remnants of his bloodthirsty tribe were exiled from Arizona to Fort Sill as the only means of assuring peace to the territory and security to the lives of white settlers. Like his predecessor Cochise, Geronimo was the terror of the territory for many years. He hated the white man with a deadly hatred, and when he took periodically to the warpath his trail was stained with the blood of his white victims whom he and his handful of followers had ruthlessly slain. When General Crook, who had attained the reputation of being the greatest of Indian fighters, was sent out to subdue him and return him to the reservation, the great Indian warrior led him into ambush, had him at his mercy and dictated his own terms of surrender. The incident robbed Crook of his reputation as an Indian fighter. When Geronimo went again on the warpath Miles was sent after him, but the wily Apache chieftain led him and his troops a merry chase over three thousand miles of territory before he was captured. That ended his career of bloodshed and resulted in his exile. In recent years he pleaded with the President in vain to be returned to Arizona to spend the remainder of his life in the wilds of his old home. But Arizona had by that time, reached a stage in history where whites enjoyed perfect immunity from Indian uprisings, and it was not deemed prudent to take any chances with a man of Geronimo's character, powers for mischief, ability for aboriginal warfare, treacherous disposition and implacable hatred of the white race.

WANTS MORE OFFICERS IN PLAIN CLOTHES

Oakland, Feb. 12, 1909.

I noticed a small item in your paper the other day about a new deputy constable who had been sworn in for Fruitvale. I took notice of what he said about a uniform and star. Such a statement looks rather cowardly. I think the man would be able to catch many a thief and crooks of all kinds if he would go about his work in a brave way. Let him keep his star under his coat and he will be able to do wonders for his neighborhood.

I do not go much on the brass buttons and show kind of work for chief catching. Just fling it up and you will see that in a year's time one officer in plain clothes, with his star under his coat, will do more active work in thief catching, etc., than a hundred uniformed officers with their stars on the outside of their coats. The cry I hear on every side is "Give us more plain-clothes officers and less uniformed officers." I quite agree with the cry. I do not care whether you publish this or not. Respectfully yours, GEORGE J. ATKINS, (Detective).

REVIVES FIGHT WITH PRESIDENT

Appropriation Bill, Carrying $137,022,007, Limits Use of Secret Agents

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19.—Two more disputes between the President and Congress were revived today, when the House committee on appropriations reported the sundry civil bill. It was in regard to the limitation of the use of the secret service of the Treasury Department. The other was the appropriation for the examination of accounts of railroads under section 20 of the Hepburn rate law. The bill, the largest of all the general supply bills, carries an appropriation of $137,022,007 or $26,000,000 less than the estimate.

The committee incorporated in the bill the same limitation on the use of the secret service operatives as was included in the bill, which became a law last winter. It was this limitation that drew forth the severe criticism of the President in his annual message last December.

Defends Action

The committee defended its recommendation a year ago of $20,000 for the enforcement of section 20 of the Hepburn rate law, by re-appropriating $255,000 of the $250,000 appropriated in the current sundry civil bill for this purpose. The sum of $255,000 was added.

The sum of $750,000 was voted a year ago, only after the President had written to the speaker and had told several members to the White House to consult on the subject. Testimony taken by the committee shows that during the seven months of the present year only $11,000 of the fund had been expended, and in this amount was included the salary of thirteen examiners for whom maintenance was suggested by the committee a year ago from another fund.

To Remove Maine

In the bill the President is authorized, with the consent of Cuba, to invite proposals for removing the wrecked battleship Maine from Havana harbor. The bill carries authority for the construction of a building at Washington of a $2,500,000 appropriation for the Geological Survey, the Reclamation Service, the General Land Office and the Indian Bureau.

The largest item in the bill is for work on the Panama canal. For that purpose $53,635,000 is appropriated, or $4,000,000 more than is carried in the current sundry civil appropriation bill for that expenditure. There will be a deficiency this year of $4,000,000.

The sum of $10,574,511 for rivers and harbors construction work authorized by law.

Another large item is $18,818,616 for the construction of public buildings.

To Protect Public Land

The bill also recommends at the urgent request of the Secretary of the Interior the appropriation of $1,000,000 for the protection of the public domain and the investigation of entries of public lands with a view of determining their validity. This amount was increased at the last session from $500,000 to $600,000.

During the hearings on the bill an investigation was made of the cost of the Government of granting holiday, half-holidays and leaves of absence to Government employees in the District of Columbia. From data which was furnished by the Public Printer it is estimated by the committee that this sum reaches fully $2,500,000 annually.

On the recommendation of the Department of Commerce and Labor the permanent appropriation, including the head tax collected in every migrant, is abandoned and a specific appropriation for this service maintained. During the current fiscal year the permanent appropriation has been exhausted and the department is faced with a deficit of $500,000.

BOATMEN CHASED BY SEA SERPENT

Claim Eyes As Big As Fists Adorned Head Size of Barrel

LONG BEACH Feb. 19.—Five men who went fishing yesterday on the launch Rita, assert they had an encounter with a sea serpent at the Grouper Banks, eighteen miles off shore. Capt. Griffith and James Harvey were of the party.

The monster was about forty feet long, said Griffith, and about fifteen feet back from the head it had a big dorsal fin. The head was as big as a barrel and it moved from side to side. The tail was like that of a porpoise. We first sighted the thing 100 ft. away. The head was then out of the water and I started to shoot at it but feared it might become angry and attack us. So I told one of the boys to start the engine and we fled away but the monster came after us. We gave the engine all she could stand and got away from the creature.

WRONGED BY JEALOUSY OF HUSBAND, LAWYER CLAIMS

Gonzales Had Brainstorms, Says Wheeler

SAN FRANCISCO Feb. 19.—The suit of Mrs. Leticia V. Gonzales, who is contesting the will of her late husband, Dr. Mariano D. Gonzales, came up in Judge Graham's court yesterday. Charles S. Wheeler, the plaintiff's attorney, in his opening statement to the jury, made a strong plea in his client's behalf and told of how she had been wronged through her husband's insane jealousy. Of the entire $100,000 estate Mrs. Gonzales was left the income of one third with the provision that she should forfeit her entire share of said estate should she remarry. Another third of the estate was bequeathed to Miss Anita C. Gonzales, daughter of the testator by a former marriage, while the remaining third was willed to the 16 grandchildren of Francisco Rico, half brother of Gonzales.

Ineffectual Compromise
At the opening of the afternoon session yesterday a short recess was granted the attorneys and Charles S. Wheeler, Bert Schlessinger, representing the executor, C. L. Fowler, Charles W. Brink, attorney for Miss Anita Gonzales, and William Humphrey, counsel for the heirs, engaged in a consultation in which the compromise was ineffectually discussed.

It is understood that in behalf of the deceased compositions on the piano, then realizing the first opportunity to strip the apartment of its valuables and various articles which he could not sell except in were found in his possession. He refused to set upon him was from although he discussed quite candidly and with considerable show of pride his recent operations as a skillful musical thief.

40. Five children an offer was made to accept $1000 each of the $10,000 in the estate in satisfaction of all claims against the estate. The offer was however refused by Wheeler. If the will is sustained the heirs will upon the death of Mrs. and Miss Gonzales, practically the entire $100,000 estate. If it is broken they will get nothing.

Two witnesses who examined yesterday, Alfred Gonzalez and L. L. Loran, the executor, testified in detail developed in their testimony.

Subject to Brainstorms

In his opening statement Wheeler said that Leticia Gonzales was a gentleman in every other respect he was absolutely insane so far as his suspicions of his wife were concerned.

Why the very day after their marriage Wheeler said he accused his wife of infidelity with a young old boy. At other times he insisted that she was guilty of adultery with a young man with whom he had known for many years. I attribute the doctor's insanity on this subject to the fact that it had surprised his first wife in guilty circumstances and had secured a divorce from her.

This tragedy in his life was followed by intense grief and the breaking of a blood vessel in his brain, said Wheeler. He was stricken with a brain storm.

Devoted Slave to Husband

It would cry out that all women are unfaithful. Mrs. Gonzales was a devoted slave to her husband. She was by his side every day of his life. She nursed him through his illness. She was his only comfort. During the day she was his nurse and at night she was his wife. She was his life. She was his everything. She was his all.

Many other similar incidents were related by Wheeler. All of which he said would prove in order to establish the insanity of mind of Gonzales. The night before Gonzales gave Richard Lloyd the last illness for his will he had had a very serious attack of insanity. Wheeler said the will was made at 1 o'clock in the morning when the floor all night, spreading his wife and at 1 o'clock in the morning went to Lloyd's office. Gonzales had always declared that he would leave his property equally divided between his wife and widow. Wheeler said the will was made to do with the Rico and his wife was not even acquainted with most of them. Later in his testimony, said that Mrs. Gonzales had informed him he intended leaving his property to Mrs. Gonzales and his daughter. The trial will be resumed Tuesday morning.

—Here is an advertisement every one in this county should read

Friday Evening, February 19, 1909.

There isn't man or woman in this county who has personal monthly bills to pay who can afford to go along without a bank account.

There isn't a working person anywhere, no matter how situated, who can safely spend their entire income and do without a savings account.

There isn't a bookkeeper, cashier or business man who would not be better off with a personal bank account distinct and separate from the general firm account.

A bank these days is an essential element in the daily business life of practically everyone. Bills should never be paid with cash, particularly when paid to unknown collectors. Gold coin should not be carried in pocketbooks or kept in the house.

There is absolutely no reason why anyone should try to get along without a bank account because the bank's service costs nothing—it doesn't entail any extra expense while the protection afforded is worth a great deal.

The probable reason why so many people try to get along without a bank is because they have the old-time idea that a bank does not want their small accounts and will not gladly accept modest deposits.

On the contrary the Central Bank is exceedingly anxious to get these small accounts, and not only offers to open checking accounts upon a deposit of $40 or $50, and savings accounts starting with a dollar deposit, but solicits such business along with the larger mercantile and trade accounts they have, always been favored with.

CHICAGO Ill. Feb. 19.—For a Hamilton the Methodist minister and wife and daughter, Leta, a former University of Illinois society belle who cut such a figure in the famous Snell case at Clinton, will try to live it all down at Newman their home.

WOMEN IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Want Special Court to Try All Women

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—In addition to advocating the decision of a court where matters pertaining to domestic relations will be handled exclusively, members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs will urge before a legislative commission now in session here the enactment of a law providing for a court solely for the trial of criminal cases against women. Arguments will be heard before the commission today. The club members will propose that a special courthouse with a prison for women be erected and that there shall be a staff of women attendants in charge. Advocates of the measure are of the opinion that they will be successful in their efforts.

Noted Sportswoman, Mrs. Alec Tweedie, Was Ministering Angel in Messina

Few women have had a more interesting and adventurous career than Mrs. Alec Tweedie, who has been working so hard to aid the victims of the Messina earthquake. She has traveled through most of the countries of the world, not by rail, but astride a horse, has climbed Alpine peaks in snow-shoes, thinks there is nothing so delightful as ice-boat sailing, shoots and drives with the best—in a word, is a splendid type of the strenuous sportswoman of today.

Her most exciting adventure occurred during her trip through Mexico some years ago, when she was the guest of President Diaz. She was careering down one of the biggest mountain passes in the world on a trolley car, an engineer on either side of her and Mexican Indians behind working the hand-brakes. Suddenly she was seized by the neck and hauled off the car. As she stumbled, she perceived a huge engine drawing a goods train coming thundering along round a turn of the pass. Crash it went into the trolley-car, not a scrap of which was left. Yet no one was hurt, and Mrs. Tweedie arose with a smile on her face.

Many Suffragettes Are Beauties and Not Old Maids

Some of the most beautiful women in England and America are among the leaders of the suffragettes. Moreover the majority of the prominent advocates of women's suffrage are married. The latter description, "A lot of homely old maids, who want to be like men, because they cannot get husbands," does not apply in any way to suffragettes on either side of the Atlantic. Those opponents must try to find some better answer than this taunt to the clear, forceful argument that educated women, owning property and paying taxes, ought to have the right to vote upon candidates and questions that concern the administration of the government under which they live. The hand that rocks the cradle is fully competent to cast a ballot.

No Lack of Hope in This Family

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Guests of a local hotel are puzzled by a quadruple signature on the register. The names are Miss Hope Robertson, Miss C. Hope Robertson, Miss L. Hope Robertson and Miss A. Hope Robertson and after each name is written "Glasgow, Scotland."

"We are touring the United States on a trip around the world," the eldest explained to an inquirer. "Our similar names? Oh, that's because our mother's name is carried by each of us."

Shopping

She stood before the counter—
The day I'll never forget—
She thought the muslin dearer
Than any she'd seen yet;
I watched her playful fingers
The silks and satins toss;
The clerk looked quite uneasy,
And beckoned to the boss.
"Show me some velvet ribbon, Barage and satin turk."
She said "I want to purchase!"
Then gave the goods a jerk.
The clerk was all obedience,
He traveled "on his shape";
At length, with hesitation,
She brought a yard of tape.

Reflections OF A BACHELOR GIRL

By Helen Rowland

In the fortunes of most men love is represented by the heart line, marriage by the clothes line, and divorce by the "life line."

Each must lose its sting for a married woman who reflects that at last she is going to receive a few flowers and compliments.
When a man says that he considers a girl "worth while" nowadays he usually means simply that he considers her "worth while" away the time with.

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing for the woman who can't hide it under a bushel of stupidity when she wants to fascinate a man.
Of course marriages are made in heaven. His Majesty, Satan, has enough of all kinds of punishment to get along without that.

A CURIOUS KABYLE SUPERSTITION PRAYING AT THE MARABOUT'S TREE

KABYLE WOMEN PRAYING BEFORE A TREE, THAT SONS MAY BE GIVEN TO THEM.

Mr. Caton Woodville, traveling through the Little Atlas mountains, noted the curious scene that is illustrated on this page. Before one of the great cedars of the mountains, a Marabout tree hung with fetiches, were three women, stretching out their hands in supplication and bowing their heads in the dust, that sons might be born to them.

Where Women Wear Trousers

PERFECTLY HAPPY IN VALAIS, SWITZERLAND, TO LOOK AFTER THE STERNER DUTIES OF THE FIELD AND STABLE WHILE HUSBANDS COOK AND WATCH THE BABIES.

Amongst the curious communities of the world, that of Valais, a beautiful canton of Switzerland, certainly ranks as one of the most peculiar and interesting. It provides a delightful picture of topsy-turvydom. From time immemorial the women have worn the "breeches" and performed the manual labor of the fields, while their lords and masters lounge their days away in ease.

What is more, the women are quite content with this inverted order of things, and are perfectly satisfied if their husbands brew the herbs, fry the meat, and look after the baby, while they wrestle with the sterner duties of field and stable.

And not only do the women of Valais wear trousers for convenience when working in the fields or tramping after cattle, but also on Sundays and fest-days. "They have better-looking ones for these occasions," I must confess," says Miss Van der Veer in her interesting article published in the February number of "The Wide World Magazine," "but they have no hankering for the trammels of skirts even during their courting hours. I was highly amused at seeing the pretty girls sauntering along the picturesque trails with their sweethearts' arms around their waists, looking to the casual stranger for all the world like two young men gone 'loony.' "One can scarcely imagine a wedding party with "bride and groom" dressed in the same kind of garments, but I have seen one in the mountains, when the bride wore a white bodice with white trousers and a bunch of white violets in her hair! She was as pretty as a picture, too, despite the attire and quite as blushing and shy as any bride out of a convent!

The working day trousers are of the "home-made" variety and by no means becoming. Often they are so long and baggy that they seem almost as cumbersome as skirts would be. The most amusing part about this working costume is that the upper part remains feminine, being the ordinary rough bodice of the peasant woman, often in bright colors of red or blue.

And, in spite of their familiarity with trousers, the women of Valais do not walk or sit in a masculine manner.

"Anyone can see at a glance that these are women in men's clothes. They always sit sideways on horses, back and not over fences by first mounting to the top rail and sliding down woman-fashion, instead of striding over man-fashion."

Another feminine absurdity is the wearing of a long sort of toga, which trails down their backs and gets in the way whenever they bend over or go through the tangles of the mountain wood.

"Why don't you wear a cap or small felt hat like the men?" I asked an old woman once.

"We have always covered our heads so," was her explanation—an explanation, in her opinion, that was all-sufficient; peasants from one generation to another do everything simply because their forefathers did the same."

"The Suffragette truly says that women have rights and that they should know and maintain those rights. To this we all agree, but how can those rights be maintained without the ballot? The answer is simple—by working on the lines where women's power is limitless. They must act together, which they never yet have done. Then they must use their brains to get what they want through the means which God has given them so abundantly. Any woman of brains, I will not say beauty, but of charm and attractiveness, can draw what she needs from most men."

"One of the main points raised by the 'Suffragettes' is that a woman has no control over her own property. However this may have been years ago, such is not the case here in New York, nor generally throughout the United States."

"Another argument for the suffrage is that with women would get better salaries and that where they do men's work they should receive men's pay. This last proposition is but fair, equally efficient labor is entitled to equal wages, but it is possible for women to do the same work as men, day in and day out, in good weather and in foul, throughout the year? Surely not.

"Women simply weren't built that way." Why don't some of the wealthy and talented women of our city who talk so much about women's rights hire women as butlers, cooks, valets, valetines, coachmen, footmen, and so on to do any of the chores? And, having done so, would they pay them men's wages?
"The Suffragette truly says that women have rights and that they should know and maintain those rights. To this we all agree, but how can those rights be maintained without the ballot? The answer is simple—by working on the lines where women's power is limitless. They must act together, which they never yet have done. ### We Are Becoming Nation of Screeners

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—"If we don't watch out we are going to become a nation of high screeners, although at present we have only reached the point of expressing all of our sentiments—ethical, emotional and intellectual—in a voice that screams."

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chaffield Taylor last night learned of this unsupervised national pitfall from George Riddle of Boston.

By way of proving his first statement Mr. Riddle reproduced the popular way of expressing sentiments of love, humility, excitement and anger. Juliet, he declared, wished herself no longer a capulet in the trouble of the politician declared his platform in a falsetto pitch.

All this might be funny, he announced, if it were not so dangerous. Mental breakdowns, he said, are traceable in some instances to our high pitched voices.

"A man of business breaks down not so long ago because he talked so much and so loud that he fatigued his temples," he argued. "Then that fatigue in his temples affected his brain. Pretty soon his fatigued brain produced imperfect thought and indistinct speech."

Even our countenances are getting "spoiled" in our excited efforts to be emphatic, according to Mr. Riddle.

"For the high pitch falls in emphasis and we seek to re-emphasize it with exaggerated facial contortions," he continued. "Then, too, we use catch phrases and superlative adjectives with accompanying expressions of countenance, trying to emphasize our point."

"The reason for our affliction extends into the roots of our nature. It is based on our extreme haste and impatience. We will not pause to restrain ourselves to the extent of speaking slowly and in a low pitch."

Begs for Home for Her Baby

PHILADELPHIA—"I ask you in God's name to try to find a home for my little darling child." These were the opening words of a letter planned to the clothes of a ten-week-old baby which was found late last night on the steps of the residence of Miss L. Peachey, 1922 Race street, an agent for the Society to Protect Children From Cruelty. The letter was signed, "From a sad, broken-hearted and sick mother," and went on to say:

"This darling is of excellent birth—but, oh, so poor. It breaks my heart to part with my baby, but God knows it is best so, in our dear Lord's name, I ask you to try to find some one who wants a beautiful baby, and one who would treat it kindly."

The child was sent to the Philadelphia Hospital.

Tony Drexel to Box for Society

PHILADELPHIA—For the benefit of the women of society, Anthony J. Drexel, millionaire, clubman and athlete, will box six rounds with Jack O'Brien, pugilist, at the Philadelphia Athletic Club, the night of February 23.

This affair is to be very small and very select. It is the first exhibition of its kind to be given in this city. The invitations were sent out yesterday, and all those who are being held out to the chosen few to attend. So delightful is it to be in, in fact, that it is said several parties are being arranged to attend the affair, and when the "night" is pulled off the rickshaw pugilist is to give a performance of "Salome" in billiards.

Mr. Drexel, it is to be remembered has appeared in the ring with Mr. O'Brien before. He gave an exhibition of his skill with the padded gloves at the Madison Cleeve Club last spring, but the coming affair is the first when a "ladies' night" has been arranged for a fight encounter.

To Teach 20 Courses in Housekeeping

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Housekeepers will be trained in real scientific fashion, according to an announcement just made by the trustees of the Teachers' College. Seventy courses of instruction in the new school of household arts will be opened to those who would become proficient as housewives. The courses include everything from sewing to baking bread.

"Jersey Lily" Writes a Novel

Mrs. Langtry (Lady de Bath), weary of the turf and the stage, and seeking a new world to conquer, has written a novel called "All at Sea," which will be published shortly. It is the autobiographical, like "David Copperfield," and gives her own version of the adventures of a world-famous beauty, it will have a very big sale. She has written three novels, and become a standard best-seller.

Royalty Helped to Give Back Jewels She Lost

The Hon. Mrs. George Keppel had the misfortune to be robbed of a magnificent purse that she valued especially, but in a recent decision, the loss had been made public half a dozen hours, she had received fourteen jeweled gifts of the same hotel, and gradually the monogamy in present-giving is well known.

Consoled the Widower

Talked to Him About His Departed Wife. Now the Disconsolate Man is Sprucing Up

Paris can be recommended as a haven for disconsolate widowers and depressed spirits, as there evidently is something in its ambient atmosphere and cheer. These remarks are suggested by the story of a study of a disconsolate widower, who having suddenly lost his wife, could hardly be persuaded to all his closest friends to take him to the city of love.

Was it all? Almost all; for the departed wife had one intimate friend, a humble young man, whose presence was tolerated by the disconsolate widower, because he knew how to reverse the order to be able to converse with her. Paris is indeed, a great place for disconsolate widowers.

Detailed description of Figure 6: This is a scatter plot titled 'Fig. 6'. The vertical axis (y-axis) is labeled 'Number of children per woman at birth' and has major tick marks at 0, 2, 4, 6, and 8. The horizontal axis (x-axis) is labeled 'Percentage of women who are literate' and has major tick marks at 0, 20, 40, 60, 80, and 100. There are approximately 15 data points scattered across the plot. Most points are clustered between 20% and 80% literacy and 2 to 6 children per woman. Notable outliers include a point near (10%, 7.5) and another near (90%, 1.5). The overall pattern suggests a negative correlation between literacy and fertility.
